

Twelve cameras occupy twelve regions of the embedding space (a) and score at different baselines (b), so the same numeric score means different things under different cameras.